Fairness and justice are core Oregon values, and legal aid helps provide access to justice for low-income Oregonians. The Oregon legal community has good reason to celebrate — during the 2013-14 annual fund drive, 3,180 of you contributed $1.225 million for legal aid. 317 dedicated volunteers throughout the state worked together to achieve these results, and many more provided free legal help through legal aid’s pro bono programs. You set records with all of these numbers this year!

Legal aid helps level the playing field. In addition to providing counsel, advice, and representation to the most vulnerable Oregonians, legal aid programs are also able to address problems and craft solutions to systemic problems such as domestic violence. One study shows that the presence of a legal aid office in a community is the single largest factor in reducing domestic violence. Thank you for helping support such a valuable community resource.

In this year’s Annual Report you’ll read more about legal aid offices, clients, and the tremendous support provided by you and your colleagues. CEJ and legal aid value your partnership and we look forward to working with you again in our 2014-15 annual fund drive.

Celebrating Justice, Together

Oregon Lawyers Yuk it Up at Laf Off

Top left: Hon Gregory Silver and Hon Julie Frantz, both of Oregon Circuit Court, at Advisory Committee Meeting.
Bottom Left: Rep Tobias Read, Oregon Legislature; Rep Suzanne Bonamici, United States Legislature; and N Robert Stoll, Stoll Berne, at the Annual Awards Luncheon.
Below: Maureen McGee, Office of Legislative Counsel; Hon Ellen Rosenblum and Lauren Rauch, both of the Oregon Department of Justice; and Tim Kollas, Oregon Court of Appeals, at the Marion-Polk Luncheon.

Top Middle: Ronn Elzinga, Elzinga & Associates, chats with a buddy during Laf Off. Ronn was judged to be the funniest lawyer in Portland — after 9:00 p.m.
Top Right: Laf-Off contestant Edie Rogoway, Rogoway Law; and Laf-Off Judge Hon Robert Wollheim, Oregon Court of Appeals, enjoy a little off-stage time.
Bottom Middle: Mitra Shahri, Mitra Law Group, celebrates her rubber chicken award for being the comedian who raised the most money through her fundraising webpage, while Sonia Montalbano, Elliott Ostrander and Preston, sings her praises.
Bottom Right: Simon Whang, Oregon Department of Justice; and Leah Cronn, OHSU Global, get crazy at Laf Off. Leah was judged to be the funniest lawyer in Portland — before 9:00 p.m. — and she has the rubber chicken to prove it!

Top: Laf Off judges Richard Vangelisti, Vangelisti Law Firm; and Mark Wada, Farleigh Wada Witt, dressed in traditional judicial garb for the occasion.
Bottom: Hon Jean Maurer, Multnomah County Circuit Court, prepares for her judging duties at Laf Off.

The Statewide Justice and Equity Cup Races

The Justice and Equity Cups were created in 2011 as a friendly fundraising competition among regions throughout Oregon. The Justice Cup is given to the region with the highest percentage of lawyers donating to CEJ. The Equity Cup is awarded to the region with the highest percent increase of lawyer giving over the previous year.

Oregon is lucky to have a legal community that is committed to helping increase access to the legal system for all. Regions throughout the state stepped up, but as the annual fund drive progressed, four in particular were strong contenders. The Portland region’s

“...we have a duty to ensure that every member of our community is well served by our profession. Every human is entitled to equal justice under law.”

— Richard Vangelisti,
Multnomah Bar Association President

Multnomah Bar Association leadership encouraged members to give and even put up a challenge match to get people involved. The Marion-Polk Region, in its 17th year of holding a CEJ luncheon, continued its strong tradition of giving. Lane County — two-time Justice Cup champions — once again had their efforts spearheaded by John Gartland and a steering committee of 15 committed lawyers. Southern Oregon’s Jackson County has sparked into increased action for access to justice in the past several years, and won the Equity Cup in both 2011 and 2012.

In the last few days of the race, competition heated up between Lane and Jackson Counties. At one point on the last day, there was a statistical tie between the two. CEJ staff sent updates to the steering committees as they worked to make last-minute calls to prior donors. The results! Statewide, 21.18% of lawyers donated to CEJ this year. In Lane County, 39.94% of attorneys contributed to CEJ. In Jackson County, 41.57% of lawyers made a donation to CEJ, sending the trophy to Medford for 2014. Congratulations!

Dominic Campanella, Brophy Schmorr LLP from Jackson County, and John Gartland, Gartland Nelson McCleery & Wade, from Lane County, celebrate Jackson County’s Justice Cup win at the Annual Awards Luncheon.

Legal Aid Attorneys Honored

Racheal Egan Baker, a staff attorney with the Central Oregon Office, received the Harpole Attorney award from Lewis & Clark Law School. This award is presented to individuals who personify professionalism and dedication to the pursuit of justice.

David Thornburgh, Executive Director of the Oregon Law Center, received the Award of Merit from the Oregon State Bar. This award is the highest honor that the Oregon State Bar bestows, given to an individual who has made outstanding contributions to the bench, bar, and community at large, and who exhibits the highest standards of professionalism.

Attorney James Young and legal assistant Nicole Bradley (both above), both of the Coos Bay Oregon Law Center, received awards given by the Southern Oregon chapter of NALEs, a nonprofit association for legal professionals. James was named the 2014 Boss of the Year, and Nicole was named the 2014 Legal Support Professional of the Year.

David Henretty (right) of Oregon Law Center has been selected as one of the recipients of the 2014 Outstanding Achievement in Immigrant Rights Award from the Oregon Chapter of the American Immigration Lawyers Association. The Award is given in recognition of the pathbreaking collaboration between litigators and activists on ending immigration and customs enforcement detainers between litigators and activists in recognition of the

Legal Aid Transitions

Julia Olsen has been named Regional Director of the LASO Portland Regional Office, replacing Leslie Kay (see article on page 23).

Pam Haan (left), a staff attorney in the LASO Portland Regional Office, was hired for the Supervising Attorney position formerly held by Julia Olsen. Pam is a graduate of Lewis and Clark Law School who started with legal aid as an Americorps attorney in 1999 and has focused her practice on family law and family violence issues. She has been a leader in the community collaboration to end domestic violence.

Tomas Hernandez began work as a staff attorney in the LASO Albany office in July. Tomas is a 2013 graduate of Willamette Law School. He is a former army recruiter and army reservist who operated his own law office before joining legal aid. Tomas’ position was added to the Albany office under the strategic plan.

Mandy Weeks, who worked as the managing attorney of the Ontario OLC office from 2008 to 2013, has left to work for the attorney general’s office in Olympia, Washington. Mandy was a tremendous advocate with an uncanny ability to describe the plight of her clients in a manner that resonated with others. Ted Reuter, who began his career as an associate at Yurri Rose, in Ontario, in 2011, and then started a private practice in Ontario replaces Mandy. Ted is a graduate of Willamette Law School and the Atkinson Graduate School of Management at Willamette.

Walter Fonseca will start August 18th as the new staff attorney in the Ontario OLC office. He is a 2013 graduate of Lewis and Clark Law School, who demonstrated a commitment to serving the low income communities in Oregon by representing clients with family and housing law cases in the law school clinic, interning at the Community Development Law Center and volunteering at the Metropolitan Public Defenders and St. Andrew Legal Clinic.

Mike Neal retired as Director of Litigation at OLC at the end of 2013. Mike graduated from the University of Washington Law School, started as a legal aid lawyer in 1977, spent some years in private practice and returned to legal aid as the director of litigation in 2002. His insistence that legal aid lawyers write short complaints and briefs was always helpful, and right before he retired, he guided a staff attorney in drafting the complaint for the case that probably caused the greatest benefit for legal aid clients in 2014. Mike is replaced by Ed Johnson (left), a graduate of Columbia University School of Law who began his legal aid community as a staff attorney in 1996. He was the OLC state support unit attorney assigned to housing law from 2002-2013. In this role he worked on cases that created important precedents on a broad range of substantive issues that are helpful for housing advocates and low-income clients. Ed has a reputation for building enthusiasm for legal aid’s work.

Karen Berkowitz has retired from OLC after 28 years of service. She was responsible for training and coordinating the administrative law advocacy in the state support unit for the last ten years. Karen was instrumental in setting up the statewide hotlines that offer quick and efficient service to low income people with equal access statewide. She was a leader on issues related to the Administrative Procedures Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, language access and administrative hearings. She is replaced by Beth Englander, a graduate of the University of Oregon Law School, who started as a legal aid lawyer in the Oregon City Office from 2001 – 2006 where she earned a good reputation for her litigation and other advocacy for low income people on a broad range of cases, and then worked for Disability Rights Oregon from 2006 to 2014.

Steve Walters (left) has been hired by OLC as a support staff attorney and will be focusing on complex litigation. After graduating from Stanford University Law School, Steve clerked for Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the U.S. Supreme Court and then joined the newly formed Legal Services Corporation. He spent three decades working on complex litigation at Stoel Rives and Allen Markins. He chaired several OSB task forces on legal aid, including the Walters Task Force that adopted the Mission, Equal Justice Values, and Core Capacities that guide the advocacy work of legal aid programs in Oregon. Steve has earned a reputation for being an effective mentor.

Linda Clingan (pictured below with Henry Hewitt and Steve Walters), who served as Executive Director of the Campaign for Equal Justice from 1991-2004, was honored with the Henry Hewitt Access to Justice Award at CEJ’s February Awards Luncheon. Linda’s vision and dedication helped shape the Campaign, which has become a national model in supporting legal aid. In January 2014, Linda returned to the Campaign to help lead the efforts to jump start the Campaign’s endowment. The Henry Hewitt Access to Justice Award is given in recognition of strong leadership, consistent effort, commitment to the ideal of equal justice under the law, and substantial contribution to legal aid for low-income Oregonians.

Laurie Craighead (left), Deschutes County Legal Counsel’s Office, received the Katherine O’Neill Volunteer Service Award from Oregon Women Lawyers, which is given to an OWLS member who epitomizes steadfast dedication and long-term volunteer service to promote women in the legal profession.

CEJ Board Elections

Gerry Gaydos, Gaydos Chursin & Balthrop PC, President; Sarah Crooks, Perkins Coie, Vice President; Ron Greenman, Tonkon Torp, Treasurer; and Elizabeth Knight, Dunn Carney Allen Higgins & Tongue LLP, Secretary. Howie Arnett, Karnopp Peterson LLP was elected to the board in March 2014. Eric Lindauer was elected as an Emeritus Board member in May 2014.
Dear Oregon Lawyers,

This year legal aid completed a comprehensive Strategic Plan. A shocking finding: because of recent increases in poverty, we now have 1 legal aid lawyer to serve every 9,444 low-income Oregonians — the minimally adequate standard is 2 legal aid lawyers for every 10,000.

While we are focusing on how best to serve clients, you have been hard at work trying to address the justice crisis by increasing funding for legal aid. We'd like to take a moment to reflect on your work and why we think your contributions of time and money through CEJ are so valuable:

• Annual Fund Drive. CEJ’s annual fund drive provides stable unrestricted funding for legal aid, allowing us to put money where it is most needed to serve low-income and vulnerable Oregonians. Having CEJ, with your help, operate this fundraising campaign, allows us to focus on what we do best: serving clients.

• Plans for Addressing the Justice Crisis. Even before our strategic plan was complete, CEJ began assembling key bar and community leaders to take a comprehensive look at funding for legal aid. CEJ’s Task Force on Legal Aid Funding adopted its Final Report on June 2, 2014. One of the goals has already been fully achieved and progress has been made on others. www.cej-oregon.org/taskforce.php

• Education, Outreach and Communications. CEJ’s staff, along with guidance from legal aid, helps design and present CLEs and organize events statewide to educate the community about what legal aid does. CEJ also helps us provide important messages to the community about our programs.

• Support with State and Federal Funding and Foundation Support. CEJ and bar volunteers travel to Washington, D.C. to help stabilize federal funding for legal aid. CEJ also helps provide grassroots support for state funding, by mobilizing the legal community to step up for legal aid. Finally, CEJ works on building support with Oregon foundations and publicizing the new national civil legal aid philanthropy initiative.

• Endowment. CEJ is working to help build the future for legal aid through its endowment fund. In the past year the endowment has increased its legacy pledges by $1.8 million.

Thank you for recognizing that access to justice is vital to keeping the legal system fair. And, thank you for engaging with the Campaign for Equal Justice in giving what you have as a community so that legal aid can continue to serve those who need help accessing the justice system.

Albany Service Area staff works to improve service to low-income residents through work on multiple committees, task forces, and boards of community partners. Priority setting in the community has identified increased needs in senior services and family law. Albany has reliable volunteer lawyers who work on housing law advice cases. Staff also meets clients at the Center Against Rape and Domestic Violence twice a week.

Volunteers Raise Funds, Awareness for Access to Justice

This year more than 300 lawyers, judges, and legal staff volunteered to help with the Campaign’s education and outreach efforts, our efforts to stabilize federal and state funding, or with the annual fund drive. Thank you, volunteers, for your tireless work on behalf of legal aid.

Legal aid also extends its thanks to the Oregon lawyers who provided pro bono services in legal aid’s many pro bono programs. In 2013, pro bono lawyers provided more than 10,000 hours of service and worked on over 3,000 cases statewide. Their names are not listed here, but we are grateful for their support.

The Central Oregon Regional Office moved to a new office space in April 2013. Staff travels to Madras, Warm Springs, Prineville and LaPine by appointment and coordinates senior law days in all three counties every quarter. Staff performs phone intake three days a week to reach the broad Central Oregon Service area. One area of focus for client advocacy that has developed over the past few years is the need for affordable housing in many Central Oregon communities. Volunteer lawyers assist with a bankruptcy clinic on a quarterly basis.

Central Oregon CEJ Luncheon

On a snowy day, more than 85 lawyers and judges attended CEJ’s Central Oregon Luncheon. Judge Lynn Nakamoto from the Oregon Court of Appeals was scheduled to speak about her experiences working for legal aid, and the great need for the critical services that legal aid provides daily, but the weather interfered. Thanks to a smart phone Judge Nakamoto was able to email her remarks and her speech was read aloud. Legal aid attorney Rachael Egan Baker told the story of how she assisted her client “Angela” who, along with her two young children, suffered abuse from her husband when he became mentally ill.

Jackson County reports that it has been hard hit with foreclosures, and that families are still feeling the effects of the recession. In response, staff has continued its efforts with foreclosure assistance; preventing housing discrimination, predatory lending, and homelessness; and participation in the statewide Legal Aid Foreclosure Help program. Jackson County has also created a new pro bono award to honor the work of William Deatherage. It will be awarded annually to an attorney in Southern Oregon who furthers access to justice with his or her volunteer efforts. For information on case types handled by legal aid offices, see underneath section.

Jackson County

Jackson County CEJ Luncheon

About 115 lawyers attended the 5th annual Jackson County CEJ Luncheon. Justice Balmer spoke about the history of legal aid in Oregon and the critical role that Oregon lawyers play in funding. Legal aid attorney Jim Sims told the crowd about his work to help a sick little boy named Zach and his mother, Natalie, maintain their income so that Zach can continue to receive lifesaving treatments he needs to cope with his disability. Marco Boccatto was the emcee for the luncheon. Jackson County lawyers took home the Justice and Equity Cups (see page 3 for more).
Individuals, Law Firms, Businesses, & Organizations by Service Area

Klamath Service Area

In the past year, Klamath Regional attorneys helped win a federal court decision related to rights of tenants with service and companion animals that could have a positive effect for our low-income population statewide. As a result, Klamath attorneys have joined with legal aid in the past year. The number of volunteer attorneys has doubled, and several law firms have pledged to work at quarterly legal help clinics staffed by legal aid.

Lane County

Lane County is adjusting still to the closure of one of the local offices. While the workload of staff has increased, the priorities remain very much the same, as the community needs have not shifted. In the office’s efforts to serve more of the population, Lane County attorneys have joined with legal aid in the past year. The number of volunteer attorneys has doubled, and several law firms have pledged to work at quarterly legal help clinics staffed by legal aid.

Almost 200 lawyers and judges attended this year’s CEJ Luncheon in Lane County, where Secretary of State Kate Brown spoke. Joe Richards, who volunteers at legal aid three mornings a week, shared “Jane’s” story. With the help of legal aid staff, Joe was able to save her Section 8 Housing. "Jane," who suffers from mental disabilities, was unable to navigate the administrative process alone and would likely have ended up homeless without this stable source of housing. Richards was also honored with a Partner in Access to Justice Award for setting an example for Oregon lawyers with his tireless advocacy.

This past year Lincoln County staff has seen that housing continues as a top request for services, and a high priority for staff time. The rental market has tightened significantly, with fewer vacancies and higher rents. Some clients find housing that is low rent but severely substandard with no maintenance. Staff observed more homelessness despite a tough coastal winter. Housing problems can quickly destroy the stability clients have struggled to build. Often, housing problems reveal other legal issues, especially domestic violence. Other tenants have challenges because of physical or mental disabilities. Staff attorneys are working with the local Domestic Violence Council and mental health resources to open new ways to coordinate services and enforce protections.

Marion-Polk Service Area

The Salem area legal aid offices continue to assist clients in family law and U-Visa cases for those who are victims of domestic violence, as well as housing cases, particularly for families in public and federally subsidized housing. Staff works closely with the Salem housing authority, which helps provide safe and affordable housing for clients. Employment law and income maintenance issues are also an important part of the work they do, as well as assisting seniors with collections issues and preventing fraud and financial scams. Marion Polk legal aid coordinates two programs for volunteer lawyers: a general pro bono project, and the ELVIS (Emeritus Lawyers Volunteering in Service) Program.

In the Ontario region, most attorney time is devoted to family law issues with domestic violence involved, but the area also has high numbers of housing cases and employment cases. Dealing with these issues is critical to keeping clients stable. Staff serves on boards and councils of other organizations to advocate for client needs in areas of domestic violence and senior issues. The Ontario office supports services to the elderly and makes presentations at local senior centers on topics frequently encountered by aging populations.

The Campaign for Equal Justice

Oregon lawyers established the Campaign for Equal Justice in 1991 to help make equal access to justice a reality for all Oregonians. Your support helps the Campaign

- Operate an annual fund drive powered by over 300 volunteers
- Educate lawyers and communities about the importance of access to justice and how legal services are delivered in Oregon
- Work with lawyer volunteers and bar organizations to increase state and federal funding for legal aid
- Help legal aid programs increase private foundation support
- Operate an endowment to preserve the future of legal aid

Since 1991, the Oregon legal community has raised $23 million for legal aid. Despite the tireless work of our volunteers and contributors, it is now estimated that legal aid has funding to meet about 15% of the legal needs of poor Oregonians.

Thank you for your help!

2013–14 CEJ Revenue and Expenses

Oregon's legal aid programs do not conduct separate annual fund drives. Instead, CEJ's annual fund drive is a collaborative, statewide effort that supports all Oregon legal aid programs. CEJ's "Other Funding Initiatives" program seeks grant, state, and federal funding for legal aid; those dollars go directly to legal aid programs and are not reflected in the numbers below. CEJ's audited financial statements are available on our website, www.cej-oregon.org.

Legal Aid

Legal aid programs provide access to justice for low-income Oregonians. Because the need is great and resources are limited, legal aid offices address high priority civil legal issues such as safety from domestic violence, housing, consumer law, income maintenance (social security, unemployment insurance, and other self-sufficiency benefits), health, employment and individual rights. Over 40% of legal aid's cases are family law cases, usually helping victims of domestic violence. At least one study has shown that the presence of a legal aid office in a community is the single largest factor in reducing domestic violence.

Legal aid programs provide free legal services to over 20,000 poor and elderly Oregonians each year who have nowhere else to turn for legal help. Legal aid stretches scarce resources with pro se materials, self-help programs, and pro bono resources. Legal aid's self-help website, www.oregonlawhelp.org, receives over 70,000 visitors per year.

Julie and Her Family Thank You for Your Help

"Julie" and "Kevin" are hardworking parents of four. Their youngest, twin boys, were both born with serious heart problems. Even with two working parents, the family lives on the edge of poverty because of medical costs. Fortunately, they receive help from the Oregon Health Plan (OHP). Things started to unravel when the hospital billed Julie, instead of OHP, for an expensive procedure. Julie contacted the hospital many times to explain that the bill should go to OHP, but the hospital ignored her, and then called a collection agency. Frustrated and unable to get results on her own, Julie finally turned to legal aid. Once legal aid got involved, the hospital called off the collection agency. Julie said, "That one bill could have destroyed our carefully built financial stability."
Legal Aid Offices

Oregon’s legal aid program consists of 4 separate non-profits that work together as part of an integrated service delivery system designed to provide high priority free civil legal services to low-income Oregonians in all 36 Oregon counties. There are two statewide programs, Legal Aid Services of Oregon (LASO) and the Oregon Law Center; and two county wide programs, Lane County Legal Aid and Advocacy Center and the Center for Non-Profit Legal Services (Jackson County). These programs operate in accordance with the Oregon state Bar’s standards and Guidelines and follow national standards for the effective and efficient delivery of legal services. See page 2 for the office in your area.

Pro Bono Programs

Volunteer lawyers help legal aid meet the needs of the poor by working with legal aid offices around the state. Legal aid’s pro bono programs are tailored to the needs of low income clients and the available resources in the particular community. In some areas, pro bono lawyers and law firms assist with intake or provide mentoring on specific cases or subject areas. Some offices offer a variety of subject matter and population specific clinics such as the Domestic Violence Project, the Senior Law Project, the Bankruptcy Clinic, the statewide Tax Clinic, and a clinic for Spanish speaking clients. Join legal aid’s advocate website at www.oregonadvocates.org and go to the library section to learn more about pro bono opportunities and training materials.

Legal Aid Funding Sources

Oregon’s legal aid programs manage over 80 different sources of funding. During 2013, the four non-profits had a combined total available funding of about $15 million. This funding meets about 15% of the civil legal needs of the poor in Oregon. The primary sources of funding are:

- Legal Services Corporation (federal): 25%
- State Funding: 40%
- Other Federal: 8%
- Campaign for Equal Justice: 5%
- Interest on Lawyer Trust Accounts: 4%
- Other Funding: 20%

The Portland Regional Office of Oregon Legal Aid Services of Oregon moved into new office space in the spring of 2014. They are still downtown, just a few blocks away from the old location. These offices serve the largest poverty population in the state, and work with a network of community-based organizations, including El Progama Hispano, the Clackamas County Bar Association, Immigrant and Refugee Community Organization, and Self-Help Inc, to reach low-income clients. Legal aid is a partner in a new family justice center called “A Safe Place” to assist victims of domestic violence in a range of civil legal matters. They have also handled a number of cases on behalf of tenants who live in sub-standard housing. The programs continue to prepare and maintain self-help information and forms at oregonlawhelp.org and work with the courts to develop interactive forms that can eventually be used as part of eCourt.
Native American Program

The Native American Program (NAPPS) has focused this year on meeting the same needs with fewer resources, because of transitions in staffing. Staff works on child welfare cases in state court, but also has fewer resources, because of transitions in staffing. Staff works on child welfare cases in state court, but also has fewer resources, because of transitions in staffing.

Portland Area Fundraising

As a part of committees, in their law firms, and in special events, the Portland legal community worked together to show their support through education, outreach, and, yes, through donations. 79% of attorneys in large Portland firms gave to the Campaign, and together they raised $384,000. The Portland Midsize Firm Committee raised over $118,000 this year; 38% of attorneys in mid-sized Portland firms donated to the Campaign. The Associates Committee hosted Party Under the Stars in September as well as Justice Trivia in March, where CEJ met its $1.225 million goal! Lawyers of all ages supported legal aid in two crowded shows at the October 2013 Laf-Off (see front page). The Multnomah Bar Association offered a $10,000 challenge match in December to encourage Portland-area donations — the challenge was answered and the match was quickly met! Together, lawyers in the Portland area raised over $748,000 for access to justice this year.

Legal Aid Portland Regional Directors: Leslie Kay / Julia Olsen

On June 1, 2014, Julia Olsen became the leader of the 24 attorneys and legal support staff at the Portland Regional Office of Legal Aid Services of Oregon (LASO). Olsen took the place of former Regional Director Leslie Kay who served for 14 years in the role with great distinction. Olsen, a 1994 graduate of University of Oregon School of Law, was a supervising attorney in the Portland Regional office since 2008, and before that worked in the Hillsboro and Portland Regional offices of legal aid, first as an Americorps and then as a staff attorney.

Speaking of her new position, Olsen said, “I have devoted my legal career to access to justice work and I am thrilled to take on this new role. I plan to build on the incredible work of the Portland Regional Office and focus on strategic advocacy and litigation aimed at fundamentally improving the lives of our clients.”

Kay has worked with Olsen for many years and states, “Julia has the temperament, values, lawyering and management skills to be a truly exceptional Director of the Portland office. She is dedicated to our mission, our clients, our program, and our staff. It makes my job of leaving the program easier knowing that Julia will be at the helm.”

Kay left LASO to pursue other legal opportunities. Her positive impact and thoughtful leadership have shaped the Portland Regional Office and will be felt for decades to come. Congratulations to both women on this new chapter of their careers.

Roseburg Service Area

Counties: Douglas
Square Miles: 5,036
Poverty Population: 22,727

Roseburg staff has been focusing on community engagement to re-energize the community about the work that legal aid does. Staff has met with community partners who focus on senior citizens, domestic violence, and housing to create new partnerships and strengthen existing ones. New opportunities to meet with groups and make presentations have helped raise awareness about legal needs and educated the community about how they can get much-needed legal assistance. The client needs in the area are extensive and these activities help to connect with the people that have the greatest needs.

For information on case types handled by legal aid offices, see centerfold section.

Farmworker Program

The Farmworker Programs represent migrant and seasonal agricultural workers on priority areas set by the communities; currently, those include employment, housing, occupational health and safety, and individual rights. The programs work with clients to improve access to justice for all by addressing very basic needs such as bringing home earned wages, shelter for families, and clean drinking water at worksites. This past year, as a part of a Project funded by the National Institute on Minority Health and Health Disparities (NIMHD) called “Prevent and Reduce Adverse Health Effects of Pesticides on Indigenous Farmworkers,” the OLC Farm worker Program and its partners created a training on Worker Protection Standards for indigenous farmworkers that received approval from the EPA for its content.

In January 2014, the Campaign for Equal Justice launched the Task Force on Legal Aid Funding to take a comprehensive look at our justice gap to address both short and long term funding strategies. Co-chairs Mark Wada and Ed Harnden, both of whom are members of the CEJ board, brought together legislators, the Attorney General, Secretary of State, Oregon’s Senate President, the Chief Justice, and representatives of the Oregon State Bar, the Oregon Law Foundation, the Multnomah Bar Association, and representatives of Oregon’s philanthropic community to look at existing sources of revenue and creative funding approaches.

According to Mark Wada, “The starting point of the Task Force was to take a hard look at the justice gap. There is funding currently to meet about 15% of the civil legal needs of the poor. In order to begin to close the gap we need to double the revenue for legal aid programs.” Oregon’s statewide legal aid programs currently have combined revenue of about $15 million annually to deliver services to the more than 850,000 low-income Oregonians who qualify for free legal services throughout the state.

Legal aid funding in Oregon is complex. As a state, federal, and private partnership, Oregon’s legal aid programs balance about 80 different sources of funding. Ed Harnden remarked, “We know this isn’t going to be an easy or a quick fix. But Oregonians and Oregon lawyers have always been in the forefront when it comes to funding legal aid, and we plan on continuing that trend.” The one source that has actually increased in the past 10 years is the annual fund support from Oregon lawyers.

The Task Force has completed its work, and its final report can be found on the CEJ website: www.cej-oregon.org/taskforce.php. CEJ and our partners will be implementing the ideas of the task force in our upcoming annual fund drive and beyond. We thank the members of the Task Force for their energy, input, and dedication to legal aid.
Endow Now! Preserve the Future of Legal Aid by Endowing Your Annual Gift or More

One sure way you can preserve the future of legal aid is to make a legacy gift to the Endowment Fund of the Campaign for Equal Justice. “In the long run, the endowment will help us address Oregon’s justice gap by helping to stabilize legal aid’s annual operations. We don’t want to impact current gifts to the annual fund, so focusing on planned gifts for the endowment makes a lot of sense,” says Ed Harnden, CEJ Board Member and Co-Chair of the Task Force on Legal Aid Funding.

In 2014 CEJ announced the Endow Now! Initiative, spearheaded by CEJ Board Member Linda Love; Board Member Emeritus Henry Hewitt; and CEJ’s former Executive Director Linda Clingan. The idea is this: if your annual gift to CEJ is $1,000, you can endow your annual gift by making a provision in your estate plan for $20,000 going to the Campaign for Equal Justice Endowment Fund. Estate planning lawyer Kathy Evans adds, “There are a lot of easy ways to do this. Consider naming CEJ as the beneficiary (or partial beneficiary) of your IRA, other retirement plan, or life insurance policy. In most cases, all you need is to fill out a simple form.” How much does it take to endow your annual gift? See the chart.

For more information about how to pledge to the Endow Now! Initiative, including easy ways to endow your annual gift, contact Sandy at 503.295.8442 or sandy@cej-oregon.org.

Another Record for OWLS

A record number of OWLS donated to CEJ, with over 35% of members raising $161,718. Katherine O’Neil and Trudy Allen, US Bank, encouraged OWLS members to get involved with CEJ through messages on the listserv, and a group of nine OWLS members put together a challenge match which was quickly met.

Staff Award
Traci Ray (left) of Barran Liebman LLP received the 2013 Staff Award for outstanding contributions and tireless support of fundraising efforts for legal aid.
Thank you for contributing to the Campaign. We apologize if we left out or misspelled anyone’s name or misstated a firm affiliation. Please call us with any updates.

- Understand how funding for legal aid works and support increased funding on both the state and federal level. Supporting access to justice is a bipartisan cause.
- Give generously to the Campaign for Equal Justice. The best way to increase access is to create more legal aid staff attorney positions. Go to www.cej-oregon.org to make a donation.
- Where you bank matters! Put your lawyer trust account funds with a “Leadership Bank.” These banks are committed to maximizing the rate of return on IOLTA accounts. The interest from these accounts is distributed by the Oregon Law Foundation. Go to www.oregonlawfoundation.org to locate the Leadership Banks in your community.
- Include the Endowment Fund in your estate plan. Gifts and bequests to the Endowment Fund will grow to be a source of perpetual, stable support for Oregon’s legal programs and a lasting legacy for donors. For more information go to www.cej-oregon.org and click on the Endowment link.
- Become involved in your local legal aid office’s priority setting. Periodically, your local office seeks input on the legal needs of the low-income client community and the priority of these legal needs. Many individuals and bar groups are deeply involved. Visit our website to see which groups have signed on: http://www.cej-oregon.org/action.php and contact us if yours would like to join.
