Twenty-seven years ago, Oregon lawyers and legal aid launched the Campaign for Equal Justice’s first annual fund drive to support Oregon’s civil legal aid programs. Since then, the legal community has contributed more than $27 million in the annual fund drive alone. The Campaign has also played a key role over the years in bringing lawyers, elected officials, legal aid, the courts, and other community partners together to address how to better meet the legal needs of Oregon’s poor and elderly.

In Oregon, we believe that justice is a right, not a privilege. Legal aid assures fairness for all in the justice system, regardless of how much money a person has. It provides access to civil legal help for people to protect their livelihoods, their health, their safety, and their families. Legal aid’s advocacy can help heal individuals, communities, and even faith in systems.

Helping to ensure equal access to justice is a proud tradition of the Oregon legal profession and an important part of our professional responsibility. The Oregon legal community rose to meet the challenge this year—with nearly 300 volunteers raising close to $1,275 million from more than 2,900 donors. Each year, CEJ staff and volunteers reach out to Oregon’s foundations to support legal aid; work to increase state and federal funding for legal aid; and educate lawyers and the community about the tremendous unmet legal needs of the poor. On top of this, Oregon lawyer volunteers have contributed almost 8,400 hours by helping low-income Oregonians through legal aid pro bono opportunities.

The 2018-19 annual fund drive kicks off this September. We hope you will join with us in supporting this essential service.

And the Award Goes To...

The Campaign for Equal Justice encourages every community and every region to come together to support legal aid. We lawyers care what happens to people in the civil legal system, and we care when people are shut out, particularly when people face critical legal issues that they cannot handle alone. Civil legal aid programs exist to work alongside private attorneys to find creative, efficient, effective, and sustainable ways to eliminate barriers so that people can know their rights and have a fair day in court.

Lawyers who step up to address these problems as a community are recognized each year through a friendly competition for the Justice and Equity Cups, organized by the CEJ and the Oregon State Bar. Since 2013, Jackson County has won the Justice Cup race, with the highest participation of attorneys donating to the CEJ. This past year, although Lane County was competitive early on and the Portland region gained speed at the end of the contest, Jackson County’s community of lawyers still dominated, with 40.4% participation.

The Equity Cup is not a dynasty; every year the competition is hot for the region with the most improvement over the past year. Past winners have been Albany, Marion-Polk, Jackson County, and Central Oregon. This year, Lane County has won the Justice Cup race, with the highest participation of attorneys donating to the CEJ. This past year, although Lane County was competitive early on and the Portland region gained speed at the end of the contest, Jackson County’s community of lawyers still dominated, with 40.4% participation.

Congratulations to the outstanding communities in Jackson and Lane Counties who won this year! Now, who will win in 2018-2019?
Farmworker Programs

Oregon’s Farmworker Programs represent migrant and seasonal agricultural workers according to priorities set by the communities. Currently, these issues include basic needs such as bringing home earned wages, improving conditions of shelter for families, preventing pesticide exposure, and ensuring clean drinking water at worksites. Staff also works with other nonprofits and agencies to improve the lives of workers statewide.

NAPOLS:
The Native American Program of Legal Aid Services of Oregon (“NAPOLS”) represents low-income tribes, Native organizations, and tribal members according to the opportunities and benefits (including public benefits, tribal enrollment, and expungement cases). One example is a grant to work with the Burns Paiute Tribal community, which is the smallest and most rural tribe in Oregon, to strengthen the ability of their law and court to respond to violent crimes against women. NAPOLS is reviewing, revising, and developing tribal laws, policies, procedures, and protocols.

Top: Danielle Ramos, Legal Aid Services of Oregon, discusses the makeup of Oregon’s poverty population and their legal needs at CEJ’s Connection and Action meeting.

Bottom: Noelle and Poppy Mossers acknowledge the audience at CEJ’s Annual Awards Luncheon.

Central Oregon provides the core values of justice.

Currently Albany is working with two grants that increase their ability to serve low-income clients—one that allows them to expand their work with seniors, and one that allows to expand their services with domestic violence survivors. They are also meeting clients weekly as part of a medical-legal partnership with Samaritan Health Services that is one of only a few such partnerships in the nation happening in a rural area. Urban legal aid settings often have a greater population to support such a program, but careful planning with multiple providers in Linn and Benton counties means that this program is not only successful, but will be expanding to include helping clients in Lincoln County in the next year.

Bend and Prineville continue to have the lowest housing vacancy rate in Oregon, and homelessness has risen 31% in the past two years, according to the Homeless Leadership Coalition’s 2017 county data. Bend and Redmond also have large population growth, which makes finding housing even more challenging. As the impact of a lack of affordable, up-to-code housing continues, the emphasis of the Central Oregon office has shifted even more to housing work. The office has also started a new legal clinic partnership with the Karnopp Petersen firm to provide advice and representation to low-income members of the Warm Springs tribe on qualified legal issues.

Hillsboro Regional Office Service Area

Counties: Washington, Columbia, Tillamook, Clatsop, and Yamhill
Square Miles: 4,023
Poverty Population: 126,248

Legal aid is a partner in the newly-opened Family Justice Center in Washington County, first helping to plan and open the site and now providing a part-time attorney to help ensure that domestic violence victims are served in the best way possible.

The Hillsboro office has seven new employees this year, and Regional Director Leslea Smith noted that the hiring pools for all jobs were large and strong, indicating that many people want to work with legal aid.

Lane County

County: Lane
Square Miles: 4,554
Poverty Population: 96,289

As the housing crisis continues to unfold, the Lane County office has recently undertaken cases to ensure that fair housing rules are enforced and to ensure that landlords maintain basic safe and habitable conditions. The office has done community education and outreach about housing rights, and has worked with the Eugene City Council to allow for more transitional housing. The office has several ongoing specific grants for working with Native American tribes, as well as a grant from the Oregon Domestic and Sexual Services Fund.
Lane County Luncheon

- About 200 lawyers attended, and this year there were 20 table captains organized by the Steering Committee. Ross Williamson and Todd Johnston emceed the event.
- Retired Supreme Court Justice David Brewer was the keynote speaker at the event. He shared with the audience that, “Justice is an antidote for what ails those in need and it’s a tonic that restores and strengthens the bonds of a diverse society that sometimes forgets the transcending ties that bind it together.”
- Erika Hente, the new (returning after several years in Bend) Regional Director of the Lane County Legal Aid Oregon Law Center Office, spoke about the work her office is doing, and Staff Attorney Elliott Farren shared the story of a client he helped to overcome domestic violence by representing her through the restraining order process.
- Lane County lawyers won the Equity Cup this year by contributing $83,000 (up from $68,000 last year).
Lincoln County

County: Lincoln
Square Miles: 922
Poverty Population: 10,121

Lincoln County continues to have a near-zero vacancy rate, because housing stock is often converted into second homes and vacation rentals, leaving few affordable options for standard renters. The Lincoln County legal aid office is undertaking a new project to improve conditions at many of the area’s mobile home parks.

Regional Director Linda Gast retired in October 2017 after decades of service to the community. Blair Bobier is the new Regional Director. “Linda is a pretty tough act to follow, but I’m happy to be in the Lincoln County office and follow in her footsteps,” said Blair. Blair has been a member of the Oregon State Bar for 30 years and previously worked with both the Lincoln County and Albany Legal Aid offices as part of a Fair Housing Act grant.

Marion-Polk Service Area

Counties: Marion and Polk
Square Miles: 1,925
Poverty Population: 97,140

A new Salem Pro Bono Bankruptcy Clinic was launched in 2018, with five evening sessions of lawyers meeting with pre-screened clients to discuss their rights and options scheduled this year. Regional Director Angelica Vega reports that, as housing stock in Portland becomes more expensive and less available, Portland workers are opting to live in and commute from Salem, making Salem’s rental market less affordable as well. Overall housing issues—affordability and safe and habitable conditions—continue to be a major challenge for low-income individuals in Marion and Polk counties, as well as statewide.
Marion-Polk Luncheon

- About 250 lawyers and judges attended, and this year there were 30 table captains recruited by the Steering Committee. OSB President Vanessa Nordyke emceed the event.
- Supreme Court Justice Meagan Flynn spoke at the event, and addressed the crowd on the importance of all lawyers doing their part to ensure access to justice.
- Salem Legal Aid Services of Oregon Regional Director Angelica Vega spoke about the work her office is focusing on, and legal aid lawyer Rachael Federico told the story of a recent client who became homeless after losing long-term care benefits. With Rachael’s help, benefits were restored and he was able to find stable housing with the proper medical attention. This client was another example of how “justice heals.”
- Marion-Polk County lawyers raised $75,000.

Ontario has seen a huge uptick in a need for education and preparedness for people with immigration questions and concerns, as well as in cases to protect certain low-income populations from exploitation in consumer matters. Most attorney time in the office continues to be dedicated to preventing domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking, but the past several years have seen an increase in cases related to housing.

The last priority setting process in the Pendleton area affirmed that the office’s existing priorities were accurate. The top two areas identified as serious needs for legal services in the area remain safe and affordable access to housing and family law, with a focus on safety from domestic violence.

Noelle & Poppy

Noelle’s daughter Poppy was born with Apert’s Syndrome, a rare condition that caused her fingers to be fused together. For Poppy to have full use of her hands, she needed complex reconstructive surgery. Noelle connected with a specialist in Boston who was confident that he could give Poppy ten working fingers. Noelle’s health plan denied the request to use this surgeon, insisting they use someone local. None of the experienced hand surgeons in Oregon felt confident that they could give Poppy ten fingers. The cycle of requests, denials, and appeals for Poppy’s essential surgery went on for three years, despite the Boston surgeon waiving his fees. Noelle desperately wanted Poppy to have ten working fingers before she began kindergarten. Luckily, Noelle found legal aid, and they began work on her appeal. Having an attorney step in to ask questions, request documents, and review processes made all the difference. Just before the appeal hearing, the health plan gave permission for the surgery. Now Poppy is thriving with ten fully functional fingers, just in time to start school.

Housing

Oregon’s legal aid programs are implementing a multi-faceted approach to help clients who are being hurt by Oregon’s affordable housing crisis. Legal aid provides web-based materials, public education, advice, limited services, and representation to help tenants and low-income clients facing foreclosure, to help them stay in their homes or get reasonable time to move to a new home. Legal aid also:

• helps prevent discrimination in housing;
• works with tenants and housing providers to help low-income people receive subsidized housing benefits;
• works with housing authorities and private landlords to provide training on housing law;
• helps develop and avoid the loss of affordable housing in several ways, including helping residents and nonprofits buy existing mobile home parks;
• and works to stop the loss of subsidized affordable housing when private owners fail to comply with promises that they made to the government in exchange for subsidies.
Family Law

About 31% of legal aid’s cases are in the area of family law and almost all of those cases involve domestic violence. Legal aid takes a systemic approach to addressing domestic violence by direct representation, advocating for more services for domestic violence survivors, and working with institutions such as the courts, the legislature, law enforcement, and community partners.

Domestic violence is a major cause of poverty for women and children in Oregon. Women and children are thrown into poverty when they are forced to suddenly leave homes and jobs to avoid physical violence or death from an abuser who knows where they live and work. Fifty percent of people who are homeless say domestic violence is the cause of their homelessness.

A study found that the single most important factor in decreasing the incidence of domestic violence is the presence of a legal aid office in the community. Legal aid helps keep women and children healthy and safe through everyday legal advocacy. Domestic violence is—and will remain—legal aid’s top priority.

Lori

Lori is a working mom with two children. She sought help from legal aid the same week her restraining order hearing was set. Her abuser had recently kicked her and given her a black eye, and Lori explained to her legal aid lawyer that there was a long history of assault. She was terrified. Lori’s legal aid lawyer explained that they provide attorneys to domestic violence survivors in restraining order hearings when possible, either by assigning a legal aid attorney to the case or by referring the case to a volunteer lawyer. When this is not possible due to stretched resources, legal aid lawyers will offer emergency advice for self-representation. In Lori’s case, legal aid provided brief advice and support so that Lori could successfully represent herself at the hearing. The restraining order was upheld and she kept custody of her children. As Lori prepares for hearings on a divorce from her abuser, she feels her family is safe.

What is CEJ?

Oregon lawyers created the Campaign for Equal Justice in 1991 to help make equal justice a reality for all Oregonians. Your support helps the Campaign:

• operate an annual fund drive powered by nearly 300 volunteers;
• educate lawyers and communities about the importance of access to justice;
• work with lawyer volunteers and bar organizations to increase state and federal funding for legal aid;
• help legal aid programs increase private foundation and grant support; and
• operate an endowment to preserve the future of legal aid.

Since 1991, the Oregon legal community has raised more than $27 million for legal aid in our annual fund drive. The legal community will be coming together again this fall to focus on access to justice. Please join us.

If you would like to get involved, please contact CEJ at office@cej-oregon.org.
Thank you for your help!

What is Legal Aid?

Civil legal aid ensures fairness in the justice system. It provides essential services to low-income and vulnerable Oregonians who are faced with legal emergencies.

When low-income Oregonians lack the resources for needed legal help, they are effectively shut out of the justice system. To the average person, our legal system is a maze. That’s why lawyers are trained to guide their clients through the system.

Legal aid provides:

• free civil legal services to low-income and elderly Oregonians;
• brochures, court forms, and self-help materials to help people navigate our justice system;
• a website with accessible legal information available to all Oregonians; and
• resources to help stabilize families and prevent a further slide into poverty.

Pro Bono Opportunities

Volunteer lawyers help legal aid meet the needs of the poor by working with legal aid offices around the state. Legal aid’s pro bono opportunities are tailored to the needs of low income clients and the available resources in the particular community. Several law firms and corporate counsel partner with legal aid offices to sponsor pro bono clinics. To learn more about opportunities in your area, sign up at legal aid’s advocate website at oregonadvocates.org.
Barriers to Justice

Current funding only meets 15% of the need for civil legal aid in Oregon.

National standards recommend 2 legal aid lawyers for every 10,000 low-income individuals for a minimally adequate legal aid program. Oregon currently has 2 legal aid lawyers for every 14,700 low-income individuals—about 68% of the targeted goal.

The Task Force on Legal Aid Funding, which included elected officials and leaders in the legal community, concluded that we need to double the resources for Oregon’s legal aid programs in order to have minimally adequate funding.

Oregon’s Bipartisan Federal Support

Despite initial White House proposals to eliminate all funding for the Legal Services Corporation (the federal agency that funds and regulates federally-funded legal aid programs), six months into the 2018 Federal Fiscal Year, a budget was passed and LSC received $410 million dollars in funding. This is up from $385 million from the previous two years. The 2019 Federal Fiscal Year starts October 1, 2018. Funding bills to support nationwide legal aid programs are working their way through both houses.

Oregon has broad bipartisan support for legal aid on both the federal and state levels. As a community, we will work with our elected representatives to continue our sustained focus on a fair and accessible legal system—a system where our neighbors can know their rights and get the help they need to protect those rights.

Legal Aid Fulfills Critical Needs at Low Cost

Legal aid is a state, federal, and private partnership. The Oregon legal community has a strong commitment to supporting legal aid through the Campaign for Equal Justice. This sends a clear message to everyone: the Oregon legal community believes that funding civil access to justice is a priority.

Oregon’s three legal aid programs manage over 80 different sources of funding. Available funding in 2017 was about $16 million. See pages 16 and 17 for more information on how this funding fulfills critical needs. Oregon legal aid’s current funding equals just four hundredths of a percent of Oregon’s total state budget and four ten thousandths of the total U.S. budget. Oregon spends about the same on legal aid as Americans do on soap dishes each year.

Your Support Makes a Difference

Federal Funding

- LSC (Federal) 28%
- Other Funding 17%
- Federal Funding (Other) 5%
- State Statutory (OSB) 40%
- IOLTA (OLF) 5%
- CEJ 5%

It costs about $300,000 per year to operate a small rural office.
Contributions to the CEJ support the valuable work done by legal aid. During our 2017-18 fundraising campaign, Oregon lawyers donated nearly $1,275,000 to the annual fund. An additional $500,000 was donated to the CEJ Endowment Fund – almost all of that from one generous donor. When everyone pitches in, good things happen.

CEJ leverages your donation to stabilize federal, state, and foundation funding – and to seek new funding for legal aid.

Adding your name to the list of donors shows other legal aid funders how much Oregon’s legal community cares about access to justice. Your donation and your volunteer work encouraging others to donate is a critical part of keeping Oregon’s legal aid programs intact!

Oregon’s legal aid programs do not conduct separate fund drives. Instead, CEJ’s annual fund drive is a collaborative, statewide effort that supports all Oregon legal aid programs. CEJ’s “Other Funding Initiatives” program seeks grant, state, and federal funding for legal aid; those dollars go directly to legal aid programs and are not reflected in CEJ’s revenue. CEJ’s audited financial statements are available on our website, www.cej-oregon.org.

The Oregon State Bar, the Oregon Law Foundation, and the Rose Tucker Charitable Trust provide support for the operating expenses of the CEJ.

*This figure does not include gains to CEJ’s endowment fund, which is held by the Oregon Community Foundation (see page 29 for more information on the Endowment).

Southern Oregon

Coos Bay Service Area
Counties: Coos, Curry, and Western Douglas
Square Miles: 3,294
Poverty Population: 21,021

Affordable and habitable housing continues to be a major issue on the south coast. Another related ongoing issue is a lack of beds for homeless members of the community. The Coos Bay legal aid office has been working with a community coalition to improve options for transitional housing and other basic services for those experiencing housing crisis. Bill Neise has stepped into the role of Regional Director, as former director Hon. Brett Pruess recently became a circuit court judge.

Grants Pass Regional Office Service Area
Counties: Josephine
Square Miles: 1,639
Poverty Population: 22,906

There is a waiting list for all rental housing in Josephine County. Regional Director Eric Dahlin states that the growing homeless population is also facing increased ticketing and criminalization (for things like sleeping in public places) by the city and county as camps become more visible. The grant to fund legal aid's Senior Law Hotline was renewed for another year. The office also participates in the Virtual Family Law Project, which allows clients to have free appointments with private family law attorneys in the Portland metro area using video conferencing. Grants Pass now schedules weekly appointments at the local community action agency to increase knowledge of legal rights and foster connections with the community.

Jackson County
Counties: Jackson
Square Miles: 2,801
Poverty Population: 48,971

The Jackson County Center for Nonprofit Legal Services has been focusing on the housing crisis as more people are requesting this type of assistance. They are working as a part of the statewide efforts to assist in preventing foreclosures, and also in collaboration with the Continuum of Care Board to build community capacity to keep people in safe, affordable housing. The office has also increased outreach and legal education on fair housing, foreclosure defense, helping immigrants to know their rights, and guardianships.

Klamath Falls Regional Office
Counties: Klamath, Lake
Square Miles: 14,079
Poverty Population: 19,997

The Klamath Falls office continues to see a trend of clients having increasing difficulty finding and keeping safe, affordable housing. They have recently experienced an increase in cases where security deposits are being wrongfully withheld by landlords. The office has also seen an increase in employment law cases in the past year.

Roseburg
Counties: Douglas
Square Miles: 5,036
Poverty Population: 26,075

The state has new interactive family law forms, created with the help of legal aid advocates, and the Roseburg office notes that they have seen a decrease in clients who need help with filling out restraining orders and other family law court forms as a result. Housing, however, continues to be a serious issue, particularly with low-income individuals facing substandard and hazardous conditions because there are so few units available. Pro bono cases continue to increase as the office has staffed several new clinics in the past year, and volunteer attorneys in the community have stepped up to help.
Southern Oregon Luncheon

About 90 lawyers and judges attended, and this year there were 13 table captains organized by the Steering Committee.

- Court of Appeals Judge Erica Hadlock spoke about the importance of legal aid to low-income individuals all over the state.
- Local attorney (and former legal aid lawyer) Janay Haas made a $10,000 matching grant to encourage Southern Oregon lawyers to give for the first time or increase their contributions. As a result, the regions of Southern Oregon had a record-breaking fundraising year, raising over $37,000.
- Jackson County won the Justice Cup for the fifth year in a row with 40% of attorneys in the county giving to the Campaign—the highest participation rate in the state.
- Grants Pass, Roseburg, Coos Bay, and Klamath regions (the other regions making up Southern Oregon) raised a total of almost $9,000, up about $1,000 from last year.

Above Top: Mark Weaver, Brophy Schmor; Bob Kleker, Jackson County Circuit Court; and Jennifer Nicholls, Jeremy Knox, and Todd Moccio, all of Brophy Schmor, celebrate another successful Southern Oregon Luncheon.

Above Middle: Brent Pearson, First Interstate Bank; Dom Campanella, Brophy Schmor; and James Scott, First Interstate Bank, socialize with each other.

Below Top: Faye Weisler, Janice Watson, and Laura Lindley-Gutierrez, all of the Center for NonProfit Legal Services, enjoy the Southern Oregon Luncheon.

Below Middle: Brent Pearson, First Interstate Bank; Dom Campanella, Brophy Schmor; and James Scott, First Interstate Bank, socialize with each other.

Below Bottom: Hon Ronald Grensky, Jackson County Circuit Court; William Francis, William Francis PC; and Eric Mitton, Medford City Attorney’s Office, gather together.
Has your bar group signed on to the Call to Action?

- Give to the Campaign for Equal Justice. The best way to increase access is to create more legal aid staff attorney positions.
- Review your IOLTA account for abandoned client funds. The funds are paid to the Oregon State Bar for appropriation to legal aid through the Oregon State Bar’s Legal Services Program.
- Shop. Support legal aid when you shop at Fred Meyer by linking your rewards card to CEJ (ask at the customer service desk to set it up) and when you shop at Amazon through Amazon Smile. It costs you nothing, but supports legal aid.
- Educate. Talk about the importance of access to justice. Let people know—civil legal aid is there for those who need help. Host a Campaign for Equal Justice CLE for one hour of Access to Justice credit for attorneys.
- Volunteer through one of legal aid’s many volunteer lawyer projects and clinics, or help the Campaign for Equal Justice raise money for legal aid.
- Endow. Take simple steps to endow your annual gift to the Campaign’s endowment fund.
- Speak Up. Let state, federal and private funders know that access to justice is important.
- Learn how legal aid services are delivered in your community so that you can make appropriate referrals for low-income clients.
- Move your IOLTA accounts to a “Leadership Bank.” If all lawyers took this step, funding for legal aid could increase by as much as $1 million—enough to fund more than three small rural legal aid offices. Contact the OLF at www.oregonlawfoundation.org.
- Connect. Ask your bar group to take action to support statewide legal aid programs in Oregon. Contact the CEJ for ideas.

Equal Justice Starts Here.

We need help from all lawyers, bar groups, and the community in providing access to justice for low-income Oregonians. Please join us! For more information on how you can be involved, contact the Campaign for Equal Justice.

We thank the Oregon Trial Lawyers Association for its consistent commitment to access to justice in Oregon. OTLA members generously donated nearly $98,000 to CEJ this year! We are grateful for OTLA’s continued support, particularly those OTLA members who reached out to their colleagues and encouraged them to get involved. Thank you!

Associate Award
Noam Amir-Brownstein

As a law student, Noam Amir-Brownstein volunteered for CEJ, and he has served on the Associates Committee since becoming an attorney in 2014. The role of the Committee is to involve new lawyers in access to justice work and advocacy, and to help promote a culture of lawyer giving in support of legal aid. Noam exemplifies these qualities: volunteering at events, encouraging others to give, and pitching in wherever needed. Thank you, Noam!

Staff Award
Cynda Herbold

Cynda Herbold has been the Business Manager at Markowitz Herbold since its founding in 1983. Cynda has been an incredible advocate for legal aid. Cynda, her late husband, and the firm as a whole have been supporters of the CEJ from the beginning. Cynda has been a Champion Donor since 2003 and was instrumental in helping to create the CEJ Barrie Herbold Endowment fund. Thanks, Cynda!

Midsize Firm Award
Larkins Vacura Kayer

Larkins Vacura Kayer is the recipient of CEJ’s Midsize Firm Award. They are a Justice Council firm, contributing nearly $400 per attorney, and had 100% participation this year! Partners Bill Larkins and John Rake did outreach within their firm, as well as to other midsize firms, to encourage support of legal aid. Partner Julie Vacura also helped with donor outreach. We thank the firm for its sustained and consistent support.

Large Firm Award
Ater Wynne and Cosgrave Vergeer Kester

Lawyers from Ater Wynne and Cosgrave Vergeer Kester increased their efforts in support of legal aid this year on an impressive level: both firms had 100% participation! Ater Wynne had a 44% increase in donations with a 26% increase in number of donors. Cosgrave Vergeer Kester had a 14% increase in donations with a 6% increase in number of donors. Both firms held fun activities in support of CEJ, such as a jeans day and a macaroni and cheese cook off. Thanks to both firms for their support.

We thank the Oregon Trial Lawyers Association for its consistent commitment to access to justice in Oregon. OTLA members generously donated nearly $98,000 to CEJ this year! We are grateful for OTLA’s continued support, particularly those OTLA members who reached out to their colleagues and encouraged them to get involved. Thank you!
Legal Aid News

An app created for Legal Aid Services of Oregon to assist volunteers in logging their pro bono hours and learning about available cases they can take to help low-income clients was the winner at the Multnomah Bar Association Hackathon held in May 2018.

Legal Aid Services of Oregon and Oregon Law Center have created and released four new self-help videos on the topic of domestic violence. The videos are available in English and Spanish and are on the topics of: Overview of FAPA Restraining Orders, Custody and Parenting Time in Restraining Orders, Housing Protections for Survivors, and Preparing for Court When Your Restraining Order is Contested. All videos can be accessed and shared at oregonlawhelp.org.

Among Us

Legal Aid Services of Oregon and Oregon Law Center have taken the reins as the Executive Director of the Oregon Law Center. Monica has focused her career on serving vulnerable people. Before stepping into the ED role, she was managing attorney of the Portland Regional Office of OLC. She joined OLC as a staff attorney in 2005. Prior to that, she worked as a staff attorney with Disability Rights Advocates in California and clerked for United States District Judge Myron H. Thompson in Montgomery, Alabama.

Monica was raised in Grants Pass and began her legal aid career as a student volunteer with the Grants Pass legal aid office. She has represented people experiencing homelessness, people with disabilities, immigrants, and other clients in state and federal court. She has conducted outreach and community presentations, and worked with local and state agency staff and elected officials to advocate for policies that improve low-income people’s lives.

Monica is taking over from a legal aid stalwart. David Thornburgh retired in April after forty years of dedicated service to low-income and vulnerable Oregonians. He began serving legal aid clients in 1978 as a student in the civil clinic at the legal aid office in Eugene. After graduating, he worked for a legal aid Native American program serving rural tribal areas, and he joined the civil litigation unit at Multnomah County legal aid in the 1980s, working under the leadership of Lou Savage and Michael Marcus. His tenure as Executive Director of Oregon Law Center began in 2001.

During David’s career, legal aid clients faced five economic recessions, racism, sexual assault and domestic violence, poor housing conditions, significant reductions in the social safety net, the foreclosure crisis, the affordable housing crisis, and other injustice. And yet, Oregon’s legal aid programs have become national leaders in building integrated statewide service delivery structures, with all groups coming together to improve these conditions in our state. As Monica begins her new position, she says, “Working with clients and colleagues in legal aid has been the most rewarding professional experience of my life. I am honored and excited to lead OLC through the new opportunities and challenges we will face in the years ahead.”
Helping to create a permanent, stable source of income for access to justice in Oregon through a planned gift honors your lifetime commitment to “justice for all.” When you Endow Now!, you make a planned gift pledge that will return the amount of your yearly annual gift to the Campaign for Equal Justice in perpetuity.

Part of the beauty of the Endow Now! initiative is its simplicity. One of the easiest ways to participate is to name CEJ as a beneficiary or partial beneficiary of your IRA, retirement plan, or life insurance policy. In most cases all you need to do is fill out a simple form. Curious about what it would take to endow your annual gift? See the chart (right).

For more information on how to pledge to the Endow Now! initiative, including easy ways to endow your annual gift, contact maya@cej-oregon.org.

Poor people in America are used to getting “no” for an answer. For many of them, injustice is the norm. For Oregonians who fear for their stability and safety, even for their lives, sometimes a legal aid office is the first place they’ve ever been where they can feel heard. The first place they are encouraged to believe they don’t have to accept “no.”

A legal aid office is a place where people can feel the pride and confidence of standing up for fairness in their lives and their children’s lives. I’ve seen this change happen again and again. I still hear from a handful of former clients who, decades after getting legal assistance from one Oregon program, express gratitude for the help they received from our office.

It takes heart to do this kind of work, and stamina. And it takes money. The funds donated to the Lawyers’ Campaign for Equal Justice make tangible differences to real people. Say “yes” with us.

– Janay Haas

Endowment donor Janay Haas spent her career advocating for low-income and vulnerable people. She worked for Redwood Legal Assistance in the ’70s; was a law clerk and later a legal aid lawyer in Oregon in the ’80s (in Multnomah and Clackamas Counties); and opened the Grants Pass legal aid office in 1992. Janay was Oregon’s legal services developer for the State’s Unit on Aging for several years before she moved to New Mexico to develop their statewide pro bono program. Janay has helped pass legislation to protect victims of domestic violence, has secured grants to increase legal services to seniors and children, has written several editions of self-help guides on poverty law topics, and has taught criminal justice.
Oregon Women Lawyers went above and beyond for legal aid this year, with almost 40% of OWLS membership donating $230,000. This is a new record! The Campaign for Equal Justice deeply appreciates the support of the OWLS women who donated this year, as well as those who reached out to each other members using the power of the mighty OWLS listserve. We are proud to have such strong support from Oregon’s women lawyers.
